Agenda item  F1
Alexander Oesterling, Menlo Park resident

As a member of the Menlo Park community who has witnessed national uproar over the murders of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, and Ahmaud Arbery, I strongly urge the City Council to consider reducing funding for our local police department. Although I respect and love our local police force, the fact of the matter is that our citizens give the police the right to use force to protect them, and as a citizen, I have seen how other police forces have abused this right and overstepped their boundaries as protectors of the community. This reduced funding can be used during this pandemic to help invest in local healthcare resources and support our local businesses. Nobody wants to resort to crime, and are often forced to because of socioeconomic troubles and a need for survival. Diverting our funding from preventing the symptom, crime, to tackling the cause, economic inequality, through greater investment in the poorest and most struggling members of our community will help improve the lives of all members of our community.

In addition to reducing funding, there are a few policy changes which can help make the police force more accountable and reduce risks of violence. When calling 911, adding additional dispatch resources for specific cases rather than directing all incidents to the police can help reduce cases of violence. Breonna Taylor was murdered because somebody called for a "check up" by the police. In 2014 in Half Moon Bay, Yanira Serrano Garcia was murdered by the police because the police were responding to a "family disturbance call." According to her family, this girl had a mental illness. If 911 diverted to mental-health dispatchers, they would have had a better grasp of the situation and how to help. These dispatches could also help with cases of suicide, among others.

In summary, I hope the city council can discuss diverting funding of the police force towards alternative efforts such as healthcare, relief for local businesses, and creating alternative dispatch resources to prevent sending the police into situations they are not trained or best equipped to handle. Thank you.

Projects are listed in alphabetical order under each category. Ravenswood Avenue Caltrain grade separation study appears under both alternate funding and resource constrained category. While alternative funding sources exist as identified, the staff resource constraints currently in the transportation division would limit ability to advance this work in fiscal year 2020-21, regardless of the funding source identified, unless other projects are delayed.
